Performance Appraisal System

The system encourages faculty, promoting professional growth and knowledge.

The appraisal process considers four key aspects: teaching, learning, and evaluation performance against workload; involvement in co-curricular, extension, and professional development activities; engagement in research, publications, and academic contributions; and official conduct, along with relevant awards or activities.

Faculty members submit 360 Appraisal Forms to Heads of Department (HODs). HODs assess these and prepare Teaching Learning Process Evaluation Sheets. These, along with Appraisal Forms, go to the principal. The principal evaluates the Annual Confidential Report (ACR) and claimed API scores with evidence. The ACR is submitted to the Managing Director for remarks, The ACR, along with remarks, is then sent back to the Principal and Registrar for further required actions

The performance appraisal system for non-teaching staff is conducted based on observed parameters, including sincerity, obedience, attitude towards colleagues, and technical competence for roles such as laboratory assistants. Annual increments are granted according to the outcomes of these evaluations.

Performance Appraisal Policy

Introduction

An efficient performance appraisal system serves as a valuable tool for faculty members, enabling them to optimize their performance, foster professional growth, and contribute to the overall institutional performance. Through performance appraisals, essential information is gathered to inform decisions related to promotions and increments. Simultaneously, it provides an opportunity to assess and discuss both the strengths and weaknesses of employees.

Purpose

This policy establishes a structured framework to ensure a consistent assessment of the overall performance of both teaching and non-teaching staff. The primary objective of this appraisal process is to support their professional growth and development within the context of the institution's strategic plans.

Staff appraisal involves the evaluation of performance based on measurable parameters, which play a pivotal role in determining future recognition and rewards. This assessment encompasses both semesters within an academic year. The criteria against which feedback will be provided are clearly defined and communicated to the staff well in advance of the commencement of the academic year.

Key Feature

At SSGMCE, Faculty members undergo appraisal through the following key channels:

Self-Appraisal Report: This report provides comprehensive information about their academic performance, research contributions, and their involvement in developmental activities within the department and the institute.

Student Feedback: Assessment includes feedback gathered through online surveys and oral feedback during in-class committee meetings.

Head of Department's (HOD) Evaluation: The HOD evaluates faculty members' performance based on set criteria and objectives.

The institution employs a Faculty Performance Appraisal and Development System similar to UGC's Academic Performance Index (API) to assess faculty performance annually. The system encourages faculty, promoting professional growth and knowledge

The appraisal process encompasses four essential dimensions:

Teaching, Learning, and Evaluation Performance: This dimension evaluates faculty members' performance in teaching and their ability to meet workload expectations effectively.

Involvement in Co-Curricular, Extension, and Professional Development Activities: This aspect assesses faculty members' participation in activities beyond the classroom, such as co-curricular events, extension programs, and their commitment to professional development.

Engagement in Research, Publications, and Academic Contributions: It measures faculty members' contributions to research, including publications and academic endeavors, which are integral to their professional development.

Official Conduct, Awards, and Activities: This dimension examines faculty members' professional conduct and any relevant awards or notable activities that contribute to the institution's growth and recognition.

Faculty Appraisal Process

Faculty members submit 360 Appraisal Forms to their respective Heads of Department.

HODs assess these forms and prepare Teaching Learning Process Evaluation Sheets.

These, along with the initial Appraisal Forms, are then forwarded to the principal for further evaluation.

The principal evaluates the Annual Confidential Report (ACR) submitted by faculty members.

This evaluation includes a review of claimed API scores supported by evidence.

The ACR is then sent to the Managing Director for additional remarks and feedback.

Final Review and Action: The ACR, along with the Managing Director's remarks, is returned to the Principal and Registrar for necessary action
